

Council agrees to meet and interview the Call Committee prime candidate choice

Hope church council and call committee met jointly on Wednesday June 6 and reviewed the paper work compiled on the prime candidate recommended by the call committee. The council then voted unanimously to informally meet the candidate and then hold a formal interview to consider the Council call and recommendation to the congregation.

Those meetings will happen July 10, 2018. After those two steps are taken and if the council approves the call then the candidate will later be informally introduced to the congregation, financial negotiations will be submitted to the synod and once approved the candidate will be presented for an approval call vote at a special congregational meeting.